The stairway leads from Brown's Hotel on the second floor to the foyer of the restaurant.

restored Brown's Hotel, Miami Beach's first hotel built in 1915, Prime One Twelve combines the vintage character of the original building with a sleek modern design inside.

Chefetz hired designer Alison Antrobus, who fashioned a "sexy, sophisticated" look, as he describes it.

Able to accommodate up to eight people, the wine room features a curtain for privacy.

One of two upstairs dining rooms, Prime, shown here, and Green, are perfect for entertaining large groups.
